What is the best way to read engineering text books? - Quora

In theory, an elephant-eating club of N people should cut down time by N . A book-reading club of N people would operate in two phases. In the first phase, each person read $1/N$ of the book, assuming no dependency in reading order. The second phase would be an $O(N^2)$ communication, but would only take $O(N)$ time steps because in each time step a person can broadcast to the other $N-1$ persons.
